

Progetto Bolide Concept is the Future from the Past Ready for the Present [w/ Video]

TOM ANDERSON on October 9, 2017 at 8:16 pm

When two Italian design firms get together for a project, the results are bound to be extraordinary. And the Progetto Bolide Concept, a yacht developed jointly by Tankoa Yachts of Genoa and Exclusiva Design of Rome, certainly fits the bill. This 236' dreamboat introduces itself with a striking exterior inspired by last century's futurism movement and featuring nearly 2,800 square feet of glass, which results in a bright and airy interior that includes a gym, a wine cellar with WiFi to aid in locating a particular bottle, loads of lounge space, and an owner's suite that occupies the top two decks.

Tankoa Yachts say a pair of potent CAT engines can push the Progetto Bolide Concept to a cruising speed of 12.5 knots and a top speed of 18 knots. Then again, with this much class and content aboard, we don't see why the person(s) who would commission this boat would be in much of a hurry to get where they're going.

PREVIOUS ARTICLE: CHRONOMÉTRIE FERDINAND BERTHOUD FB 1.3 IS HIGH ON STYLE AND PRICE. NEXT ARTICLE: SAMUEL AGUIAR HOPE IS A SILENT SHINY SENSATION.

THERE ARE NO COMMENTS ADD YOURS

Message form with social sharing icons and input fields for Name, Email, and Website, followed by a SEND button.

BACK TO TOP

TWEETS

@FIAFormulaE has offered the first glimpses of its #new #electric race car, and man oh man, is it a looker!...

The @LandRover #Defender is back (sort of) baby! Now with some extra #style and extra #power from a #zesty naturall...

Wherein we #remember one of the all-time innovators and class acts in #motorsports history #DanGurney...

The most #extreme vehicle yet to come from @TOYOTA_GR is an LMP1-inspired #hybrid #hypercar. https://t.co/bfIQRi9JZ4

NEWSLETTER

JOIN OUR MAILING LIST!

Name input field

E-mail Address input field

Subscribe button